Winter Wraps Voluminous and Colorful, Almost Barbaric in Splendor—Evening Wraps in Gorgeous Array of Colors—Early Autumn Hats Small and Close-Fitting of Felt or Plush—Very Little Trimming—New Fabrics Are Lovely—Loose Coats of Chiffon Cloth For Afternoon—Fur and Marabou Too Popular to Be Eliminated—New Mackinaws.

NEW MACKINAWS.
If you are much in the great outdoors you will find the new Mackinaws far more than a "hobby." They're extremely warm and, being full and boxy, the body enjoys a freedom in them that is delightful. They are made of specially woven, 32-oz. all wool cloth, in an attractive plaid effect in a variety of attractive color combinations, with belt all around and two outside pockets. For motoring, driving, walking and watching outdoor sports. They are highly popular for college and school wear. Women and misses, as well as men and young men wear them.

WINTER WRAPS.
Voluminous and colorful are the wraps to be worn this winter. Almost barbaric are they, with a splendor of gold and silver brocades enriched with fur. The Dry Goods merchants are showing a line of the latest Parisian fashions, among which is a wrap of broadened chiffon velvet in a dark prune shade, draped in loose folds confined into a tight band. The other wide undefinable draperies are defined with bands of skunk fur. A wrap of moleskin is very odd, giving the effect of a two-piece suit, bands of ermine linking the two and outlining the drape. Chinola, a new fur with all the beauty of chinchilla, and with greater wearing qualities, is displayed to advantage in a long motor coat. The new color, brass, is shown in a broadened wrap, draped in folds with a wide band of plain brass chain mouse outlining the edge of the coat and forming a flat bow which extends across the front.

The dictators of fashion in Paris are trying hard to force the short coat in the tailored suits, but the long, graceful lines of the cutaway remain popular. The materials are soft and silky and have the necessary clinging qualities. Fur predominates in the suits, black fox being used very effectively on a royal purple duvetyn. The coat is cut away, revealing an embroidered waistcoat. The straight back and mandarin sleeves, new features, are displayed to advantage. The skirt is draped in full folds about the hips and light at the ankles. A combination of materials is shown in several of the models, a striking one having the coat in caracul plush with velvet collar and cuffs, and skirt of chiffon broadcloth draped in front. An evening gown of orchid brocade poplin shows its Paris origin in every line. A silver thread runs through the material. The skirt has the panner drape, ending in tassels of rhinestones. A deep slit is filled in with phantom lace, and the bodice laid over a rhinestone heading is of the same filmy lace. A belt of American beauty velvet finishes the wonderful creation.

To correspond with these creations are hats of every shape and color. Black predominates this year, although some of the new shades, such as Russian green are becoming popular. Hat and fur set to match seem to be as corbeau blue, petrol brown and the last word.

Lace collars edged in fur, ostrich plumes of every variety shooting high in the air, and small close-fitting hats standing a little higher on the head than in the past, are some of the features that characterize the new hats.

EVENING WRAPS.

Solomon in all his glory never equaled the gorgeous array of colors presented by this season's evening wraps.
They are wraps in the truest sense of the word, for very few, except those obviously designed for older persons, are of the coat persuasion. The new models are long, soft and clinging, and most are either of one solid color or give the iridescent effect produced by numbers of beads.

One of the new features is the way in which most of the cloaks fit the shoulders. They have an almost old-fashioned look that is very charming and quaint.

Almost every kind of material is to be used. Cloth, of course, for those who seek warmth first. Many of these are lined with fur that would keep out the coldest air, but since the introduction of new linings, many lighter cloaks are being used.

Various shades of old rose, blue and scarlet are always good, and light up effectively.
NEW HATS FOR AUTUMN.
The pendulum of fashion swinging back from the wide-brimmed hats of midsummer has brought into vogue once more the small, close-fitting hat of felt or plush.

Nearly all of the early autumn models to wear with the tailored suits are close fitting and smart in shape, but they no longer extinguish lady's eyes or nose. In fact, the fashionable woman may retain all her features this year with the exception of her ears.
The small tailored hats have very little trimming, a pair of wings or an aigrette being considered sufficient for a trim model of Alice blue plush faced up with black having a small pair of iridescent wings set mercifully wise at the back of the crown, while another model of golden brown had two shaded wings set stiffly across the back, and some of the more youthful models simply had quills thrust through the side of the hat itself.

Small brims rolled back are shown on many of the models, while modfied sailors and long narrow hats will probably continue in favor, with more or less low crowns and high trimmings.

Many little fads and fancies are to be noted in the millinery shop, and one quaint idea of Parisian women has been brought to this country and taken up by exclusive women, and this is the wearing of a tiny jeweled arrow through the edge of the hat brim in front.

These quaint little shimmering pins unscrew in the middle and so give the effect of having actually been shot through the brim, as if Cupid, aiming at one's heart, had hit one's bonnet—where, often, by the way, a woman's heart is.

There are a number of cloth hats seen this autumn edged with bands of velvet and trimmed with feathers, while one smart model shown in an exclusive shop was of short-napped plush in a trim shape, with a twisted rope of dull gold about the crown and a gold wing-like ornament holding the brim up at the left side.

This vogue for tulle has brought out lovely butterflies for the backs of the evening hats, their huge wings of delicately wired tulle being attached to a long narrow body of chenille, from which long feather antennae extend.

NEW FABRICS VERY LOVELY.

Another feature of the autumn afternoon gowns, besides the sashes, are the loose coats of chiffon cloth frequently worn over them. These coats hang quite loosely, and have wide an-gel sleeves and, combined with the floating sash ends, lend an airiness to midday's appearance that will be very attractive.

Most of the afternoon gowns for the winter are fur trimmed, since fur and marabou are both too popular to be eliminated.
Bands of fur about the hem and sleeves and huge buckles of fur holding draperies in place are notable features of many of the frocks seen in exclusive shops, and if you have a set of furs part of which is good you shop will make it into bands for you and against pale tinted cashmere, broadcloth or satin you will find the effect far richer than any sort of passementerie.

As for materials they are many and rarely heard of this year. Newness is shown in fact not so much in forms as in fabrics. Gorgeous brocades in Oriental and modern art effects have replaced the plain colored meters and chameuse of a season ago, and there is a striking effect of contrast between skirt and bodice—that is to say, upper bodices, for usually the silken skirt material rises to the bust line, folds of tulle or lace being drawn over the shoulders and arms.

ODD FELLOWS TO CELEBRATE

Members of the Odd Fellows and Rebekah lodges from all parts of the state will be present at the housewarming to be held in the Fraternity block this evening when the new lodge rooms of the order will be formally opened with a suitable entertainment.

Grand Secretary P. A. Simpkin of Salt Lake will deliver the principal address. Other grand lodge officials who will officiate are W. L. Snyder, grand master; W. M. Scott, deputy grand master; Roy Watson, grand warden; Rev. F. A. Simpkin, grand chaplain; and S. L. Raddison, grand marshal. Of the local lodge, the following will take part: E. C. Meek, herald of the north; T. Harris, herald of the south; L. E. Loranee, herald of the east, and Henry Kissel, Jr., herald of the west.

TERMINAL STATION PLANS HAVE BEEN APPROVED

The department at Washington has approved the plans for the parcel post terminal station and the south room in the Kiesel hotel building at Wall avenue and Twenty-fourth street will be fitted up at once by the owner for the handling of fourth class mail matter. Announcement that the department had approved the plans was received by Postmaster W. W. Browning yesterday afternoon. According to Chief W. F. Bananaser of the railway mail service, five or six men will be employed in the terminal station during the first few months, but after the system has been in effect for a time a larger number will be required to handle the work turned over to the station. Later the terminal will be made a mailing station. In fact all duties of a postoffice will be attended to there, with the exception of selling and paying money orders.

Six terminal stations have been established in the United States since the parcel post law went into effect. A station was established in Sacramento, Cal., on Saturday. Others are located in Indianapolis, Columbus, Des Moines, Rochester and Syracuse.

MERCHANT FOUND DEAD IN HOTEL

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 23.—The body of Joseph Schlansky, a merchant, was found late last night in a room at a local hotel, which had been occupied by a young man who had registered as "W. R. Anderson, Louisville, Ky." A strong cord had been tied around the merchant's throat and he had been shot through the head. Anderson, who is said to have told that he was a salesman, called at Schlansky's store yesterday and asked him to go to his room where he said he had some goods to show the merchant. When Schlansky failed to return last night, his family notified the police.

The slayer left two notes in which he said he had started to rob the merchant and then killed him.

QUESTION OF SEX HYGIENE

United States Bureau of Education Officials Consider Subject Very Important.

SCHOOL MEN DIFFER

Medical Men Believe Education Will Be Remedy For Social Evils.

Washington, Sept. 23.—Wide difference of opinion exists among school men as to the extent to which sex instruction should be given in the public schools, as shown by reports to the United States bureau of education. Officials of the bureau express the conviction that the sex hygiene question is about to assume great importance in many school systems.

Ideas submitted to the bureau range all the way from detailed plans for sex instruction beginning in the elementary schools to a determined opposition to any form of sex education whatsoever. The bureau declares that while there are many teachers and medical men who favor sex education in the schools, holding that the policy of silence and punishment as practiced in the past has failed and that education rather than punishment should be the remedy for social evils, there are many on the other hand both among educators and physicians who see danger in this instruction, holding that "safety lies in diverting attention from sex details."

LAST GAME OF THE SEASON AS SEEN BY LOCAL FAN

The game was opened with Molasses at the stick. Smallpox was catching. Cigar was in the box and had plenty of smoke. Horn was playing first base and Piddle was playing second. Corn was in the field. Apple was umpire. When Ax came to bat he chopped one and Cigar let Cake Walk and Sawdust filled the bases. Song made a hit and Twenty made a score. Every foot of ground kicked and they said Apple was rotten. Balloon started to pitch, but went up in the air. Then Cherry tried it but was wild. When Spider caught the fly the crowd cheered. Needle tried to umpire, but wasn't sharp enough as he only had one eye. Ice kept cool until he was hit by a pitched ball, then you should have heard Ice Cream. Cabbage had a good head and kept quiet. Grass covered lots of ground in the field. Organ refused to play. Hornet stung the ball, but it fell into the hands of the clock. Bread loafed around until he was put out. In the fifth inning Wind blowed around what he could and Hammer began to knock. Then the trees began to leave. Knife was put out for cutting first base. The crowd roared Pennant all through the game, and everybody kicked when they put light out. Balloon went up in the air, just as soon as the Pigs began to root. Apple told Fiddle to take his base. Oats was shocked. Song made another hit and Trombone tried to slide, but was out. Then Meat was just out at the plate.

The score was 1 to 0, and the game was over. Door said that if he had pitched he would have shut them out. There was a lot of betting on the game and Soap cleaned up, but

GAMES PERMITTED IN PANAMA CITY

Panama, Sept. 23.—A persistent rumor is in circulation here that gambling will again be permitted in the cities of Panama and Colon after October 10. When games of chance were suppressed in these cities by the Panama government at the urgent request of the canal authorities, a year or more ago, it was agreed that the prohibition should remain in effect until the completion of the construction of the canal.
